

ECOVADIS: DELABIE RETAINS ITS SILVER MEDAL!

In August 2023, DELABIE once again achieved a silver EcoVadis medal with a score of 61/100. This score reflects the company's engagement and performance in the categories of "the Environment", "Social and Human Rights" and "Ethics".

ECOVADIS

The EcoVadis organisation assesses the CSR (Corporate and Social Responsibility) of businesses, i.e. the way that companies have incorporated CSR principles into their activities, as well as the resulting impact. The score (0 - 100) reflects the quality of CSR management at the time of assessment. Four separate criteria are considered during the evaluation: the environment, social and human rights, ethics and responsible purchasing.

Over 75,000 companies have been evaluated throughout 175 countries. The assessment is tailored to the particular CSR policies of the business in question relative to its size, activity and geographical location. These criteria are based on international CSR standards such as the principles of the UN Global Compact, the ISO 26000 guidance and the International Labour Organisation (ILO) standards.

DELABIE awarded a silver medal

For a second year, the DELABIE group is pleased to announce that we have been awarded the silver medal with a score of 61/100.

This score is above or equal to 79% of companies assessed by EcoVadis. This award is in recognition of our efforts in CSR and sustainability. It places DELABIE in the highest tier of ethical businesses.

The positive evolution (+2 points in the space of a year) of our global score reinforces our commitment to the promises and objectives we have made in the pursuit of a better future. As a business founded with the mission of achieving 90% water savings in all public places, DELABIE is at the cutting edge of strategies for a better tomorrow. We will continue our endeavour to improve our policies and practices in a transparent and verifiable manner.
